

Dr. Irina Koyfman

DNP, NP-C, RN

Healthcare AI & Caregiving Keynote Speaker

Author | Nurse Practitioner | Doctor of Nursing Practice, Johns Hopkins

ABOUT

Dr. Irina Koyfman is a nurse practitioner, healthcare executive, and author who holds a Doctor of Nursing Practice from Johns Hopkins University. She has spent more than two decades on the frontlines of care and consulting on chronic care management and remote patient monitoring. She brings warmth, lived experience, and clinical depth to every stage, turning complex topics into clear, human, and immediately useful takeaways.

SIGNATURE SPEAKING TOPICS

AI in healthcare

From hype to bedside reality

The Sandwich Generation

Caregiver resilience and tools

Nursing leadership

Leading teams through change

The AI Health Companion

AI for patients and caregivers

CCM & RPM that work

Programs that improve outcomes

From immigrant to executive

A story of resilience and purpose

FORMATS & CREDENTIALS

Formats: keynotes, half and full day workshops, panels, and virtual webinars, in person or online. Audiences: healthcare conferences, hospital and health system clinical teams, nursing organizations, and caregiver communities.

DNP

Johns Hopkins

NP-C

Board certified

3

Books

25+

Years in healthcare

300+

Talks & podcasts

BOOKS

The AI Health Companion | AI Competency Domains for Nurses | The Sandwich Generation Handbook
(available on Amazon)

WHAT AUDIENCES TAKE AWAY

● Practical tools

Concrete steps, not hype, that clinicians and caregivers can apply the next day.

● Real stories

Lived experience as a caregiver, patient, nurse, and healthcare executive.

● Renewed confidence

Audiences leave less anxious about AI and more ready to lead the future of care.

Book Dr. Irina to speak

sandwich-generation.org | irina@affinityexpert.com | LinkedIn: Dr. Irina Koyfman, DNP